

"DISINTERESTED PATRIOTS" FRAMED IMPORTANT ARTICLES IN PROPOSED CONSTITUTION

Their Activity in Republican Committee Caused a Giggle in Albany.

By Martin Green.
(Special Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)
ALBANY, Oct. 8.—Here with is presented a pair of illuminating instances of the leading parts played by corporation lawyers and corporation officials in passing the proposed constitution favored new Constitution.

More or less amusement went the rounds in Democratic and Republican political circles here today when reports were received of the proceedings of the meeting of the State Republican Committee in New York City on Wednesday. It was duly noted that among the most active in forwarding the resolution endorsing the proposed new Constitution, which was finally adopted by the committee, were James S. Whipple of Cattaugus County and Hubert Mandeville of Chemung.

To the average reader James S.
Whipple was just plain James S.
Whipple, member of the State Committee from Cattaraugus and Hubert Mandeville was just plain Hubert Mandeville, State Commissioner from Chemung and an attorney at law practicing at Elmira.

Up here in Albany more is known of James S. Whipple and Hubert Mandeville.
It is necessary to go back a bit to see a line on Mr. Whipple. In the Administration of Gov. Hughes Mr.
Whipple was Forest, Fish and Game Commissioner. Gov. Hughes removed him, after a trial, for various irregularities, among which was his action in making a stipulation by which $400,000 worth of State lands were turned over to the Santa Clara Lumber Company. The stipulation was subsequently upset by the Court of Appeals.

WHY WHIPPLE FAVORS THE CONSERVATION CLAUSE.

Mr. Whipple's friendly feeling toward the lumber companies, which brought about his removal from office by Gov. Hughes still persists. We find Mr. Whipple getting up in the meeting of the State Committee yesterday and urging that body to indorse the proposed Constitution which embraces the rawest and most inexcusable conservation measure ever submitted to a supposedly intelligent electorate.

The conservation measure turns over absolutely to a Conservation Commission of nine members "to serve without pay" the natural resources of the State. The article was framed largely by Ferris J. Meigs, President of the Santa Clara Lumber Company, against which corporation the State is now pressing a suit for the recovery of $12,000, the value of lumber alleged to have been cut on State lands. The engineers of the Constitutional Convention obligingly placed Mr. Mandeville on the Conservation Committee and, in order that Mr. Meigs might not be steered astray, they put on the same committee Edward J. Angell, counsel to the Santa Clara Lumber Company.

Furthermore the engineers of the Convention placed on the Committee on Conservation of the Natural Resources of the State Mr. James S.
Whipple of Cattaraugus. Maybe they didn't know that Mr. Whipple had been removed from the office of Forest, Fish and Game Commissioner and that his removal caused a revision of the Conservation Law and the turning over of the natural resources of the State to a Conservation Commission. The last Legislature made a further change, placing the natural resources of the State in the hands of a single Commissioner, the purpose of this move having been to throw the Hon. "Fucky" McCabe of Albany out of a nice, fat job.

Neither Mr. Meigs, President of the Santa Clara Lumber Company nor his legal adviser, Mr. Angell, is a member of the Republican State Committee. But their associate on the Conservation Committee of the Constitutional Convention has recently attained the honor of such membership, and the reports of the proceedings of the State Committee on Wednesday show that he was right on the job.

CORPORATION LAWYER'S IN-TEREST IN P. S. COMMISSIONS.

As for the Hon. Hubert Mandeville of Chemung, he is attorney for the Eric Railroad and for all the traction interests in and around Elmira. He is a very able railroad attorney, too, and well known among the lawyers for an intelligent worker in the interests of his clients.

Mr. Mandeville was a delegate to the Constitutional Convention. During the greater part of the proceedings he devoted himself to the consideration of a man working on eggs.
Never but once did he raise his voice and it was that once and what he said was a masterpiece of the art of the Constitution in the State Committee meeting of such interest here is Albany.

When the engineers of the convention announced the committee assignments it was found that Mr. Mandeville, railroad attorney, was on the Committee on Public Utilities, the Committee on Industrial Interests and Relations and the Committee on Education. The Committee on Education did not do much of anything throughout the long summer but the other two committees did a lot.

Mr. Mandeville was particularly active in the Committee on Public Utilities. He was one of the three members of the sub-committee which drafted the amendment making the Public Service Commission a body of Five and Second District Constitutional bodies.

Under the amendment drawn by Mr. Mandeville and his associates on the sub-committee and endorsed by the corporation lawyers and politicians who dominated the convention, the Public Service Commission of the City of New York is fastened on the community for twenty years and it is costing the city $2,000,000 a year.
Likewise the up-State Public Service Commission, which has supervision over the Erie Railroad in New York and the traction companies of Elmira and vicinity, Mr. Mandeville's client, is fastened on the State for twenty years.

FASTENED P. S. COMMISSIONS ON STATE FOR TWENTY YEARS.

All through the proceedings Mr.
Mandeville of Elmira did not utter a single word until the Public Service Commission matter came before the convention. Then he arose in his place and delivered himself of words.
He had not come to the convention, he said, expecting to take any active part in the work of the body. He had come largely to sit at the feet of the mighty and absorb enlightenment, he said. But, said Mr. Mandeville, here was a question of mighty importance—the question of continuing the present Public Service Commissions as constitutional bodies.

He was a whole lot in favor of that measure, Mr. Mandeville said. He argued for it and he pleaded for it, and when the convention adopted the amendment creating two constitutional Public Service Commissions Mr.
Mandeville was well pleased.

Taxpayers will do well to remember that the conservation article, putting the natural resources of the State into the hands of a body which will, if it is legally created, have legislative powers, was framed by the President and the counsel of a lumber company that is the defendant in a lawsuit brought by the State and by a former Forest, Fish and Game Commissioner who was removed by Gov. Hughes.

Taxpayers will do well to remember also that the guiding spirit of the Public Service Commission article is counsel for the Erie Railroad and the traction interests of the city of Elmira. It is no wonder that the activities of Mr. Mandeville and Mr. Angell in the State Committee proved a source of amusement and comment here in Albany, where the inside of these things connected with the New York Government is clearer than in New York.

NAT HERRESHOFF WEDS.

Boat Builder's Bride Is Nurse Who Attended First Wife.

Nathaniel G. Herreshoff, long associated with his brother, John B. Herre-shoff, the blind boat builder, in designing racing yachts, was married yesterday in St. Michael's Protestant Episcopal Church at Bristol, R. I., by the rector, the Rev. Dr. George L. Locke.
Mr. Herreshoff is sixty years old. His bride, who is a graduate nurse, is twenty years younger. She attended him in his last illness. The bride and bridegroom started for New York immediately after the ceremony on the yacht Helianthus.

WORLD "ADS" WIN FOR HIM.

Claim to Real Estate Commissions Fought by Them.

Advertisements which John Maher of No. 30 East Forty-second Street placed in The World caused a jury in the City Court yesterday to award him commission on a $15,000 real estate deal involving property at Twenty-first Street and Eighth Avenue, formerly owned by John J. Doyle.

Stephen McFarland claimed it was he, not Maher, who had found a purchaser for the property. There were several witnesses on both sides, but The World advertisement placed by Maher convinced the jury in his favor.

OBITUARY NOTES.

The Right Rev. Dr. Robert Codman, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Maine, died yesterday in a Boston hospital following an operation. He was ordained in 1894 after practicing law six years in Boston. He was married Sept. 16 last to Miss Margaretta Biddle Porter of Philadelphia.

Samuel P. Warren, for many years organist and choir master of Grace Church, Broadway and Tenth Street, died yesterday at his home, No. 201 West Eighty-seventh Street. He was for eight years conductor of the New York Vocal Union and was a founder of the American Guild of Organists.

August F. Gunther, General Superintendent of the Department of Street Cleaning, died suddenly yesterday at his home, No. 2784 Creston Avenue, the Bronx.

The Rev. Dr. Lorenzo D. Watson, former college professor, noted temperance advocate and a leader in Methodism, is dead at his home, No.
293 Stuyvesant Avenue, Brooklyn.

Alfred W. Speer, one of the inventors of the moving sidewalk and ocu-lator, died yesterday in his eighty-seventh year at his home in Passaic.
Frederick Davis, twenty-five years old, General Secretary of the Brown University Christian Association, died yesterday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis, in Montclair.

800 Strike at Michigan Alkali Works in Ford City.

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—Eight hundred employees of the Michigan Alkali Company at Ford City, a Detroit suburb, struck today, joining 200 who walked out yesterday. The plant was shut down last night for the first time in eighteen years. The strikers demand an increase in wages from $1.75 to $2.25.

FRITZI SCHEFF DIDN'T OBEY.

Singer Ignored Court Order to Sell of Her Music.

Fritzi Scheff, comic opera princess, may go to jail for failure to obey a Supreme Court order to appear for examination in supplementary proceedings. She was to have appeared yesterday, but she did not. Her lawyer said she was playing in Philadelphia.

When Miss Scheff went through bankruptcy proceedings recently, she agreed to include among her creditors Mary Fisher, a maid, who claimed $20 back wages. Miss Fisher got a judgment for the full amount, and when she couldn't get the money obtained an order to examine the singer.
